ROME (AP)—Pope Paul VI blessed and distributed palms at St. Paul's Basilica on Sunday, opening the solemn observance of Holy Week.

The pontiff went in warm spring sunshine to the basilica for a three-hour Palm Sunday ceremony, marking Christ's triumphal entry into Jerusalem five days before his death on the Cross.

Thousands of Italians and tourists applauded as Pope Paul, wearing a red mantle and a gold mitre, was carried on his portable throne to his place under a 13th-century mosaic of Christ in the basilica apse.

Train Robbery Jury-Bound

AYLESBURY, England (AP)—One of Britain's longest trials enters its final phase Monday when the jury starts debating the fate of 11 men linked to the great train robbery of last Aug. 8.

That robbery netted the bandits about $7 million—the biggest cash haul in the annals of crime. Most of the loot is still unrecovered. And a number of major suspects remain at large.

The nine-week-old trial has set something of an expense record that has the British press and public grumbling. It has proved so dull that some newspapers dubbed it "the great train bore."

Kennedy, LBJ's Pick, Nixon Says

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Former vice president Richard M. Nixon predicted Sunday night that President Johnson will name Robert F. Kennedy as his running mate in the 1964 campaign.

Nixon said in a local television interview that "while I haven't been consulted by the Democrats," the political odds favor Atty. Gen. Kennedy in the vice presidential role.

Collegians Invade Florida

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Thousands of college students migrated to Florida's unusually chilly Atlantic coast Sunday, joining at least 30,000 already here for Easter holidays.

Policemen in Daytona Beach and Fort Lauderdale, 200 miles to the south, doubled up to prepare for the first full week of the annual onslaught.

Stock Exchange Tightens Rules

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Stock Exchange announced plans Sunday to tighten rules governing floor traders — brokers buying and selling securities on the exchange floor for themselves rather than for the investing public.

The announcement came amid a deepening battle between the nation's largest stock exchange and the Securities and Exchange Commission over floor trading. The SEC, a government agency has charged that floor trading is an unnecessary privilege that should be abolished or severely restricted.

'Have Nots' Seek 'Have' Status

GENEVA (AP)—The "have-not" nations open a drive Monday for a larger share of the world's economic pie to help fight population explosions.

They will press their campaign before the U.N. Conference on Trade and Development, which convenes with an address by Secretary-General U. Thant.

In planning more than two years, the conference has been described as the most ambitious international effort yet to change the patterns of world trade. Nearly 1,500 delegates from 122 countries are assembled here. The only major country uninvited is Communist China.

Miners Rap Udall For Stand On Oil

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United Mine Workers Union and Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall traded blasts Sunday over whether increased imports of residual oil will jeopardize coal miners' jobs.

W. A. Boyle, president of the UMW, said President Johnson should fire Udall if he doesn't rescind his order permitting increased imports of the oil.

Udall predicted an increase of 10 per cent in coal production this year. But he commented in a statement that the coal industry is now highly automated and that the increasing effect of automation would be such that the expected increase in output would not result in a significant increase in coal mining jobs.

Nasser Tightens Hold

CAIRO (AP)—President Gamal Abdel Nasser unfolded Sunday his plan for giving Egypt a one-party Socialist democracy and legalizing one-man military rule for another six years.

The newspaper Al Ahram, with evident approval by Nasser, published the outline of the new constitution he intends to present to the Parliament elected this month which meets Thursday for the first time.

The constitution has been written carefully to insure continuation of policies Nasser has developed since he assumed the country's leadership a dozen years ago. But it contains reforms which, if implemented, would restore some semblance of democratic balance to the Nasser regime and end government by decree.

To legalize his position as president, the new constitution provides that the chief executive be nominated by assembly majority and approved by popular referendum for a six-year term.

Nasser is chief of the Arab Socialist Union which must approve all legislative candidates. Therefore his nomination and election is a foregone conclusion.

But the constitution provides that all laws must be passed by Parliament, thus ending Nasser's right to rule by decree. Parliament is given the sole power to levy taxes, contract debts and approve projects financed by the public treasury.

All foreign and military policy matters remain in the hands of the executive.

The new constitution ends the state of emergency which has existed in Egypt since 1951, and strips away some of the secrecy surrounding even routine government decisions. Even should reforms prove effective, however, there is no likelihood of any sharp changes.

Foes Rumored Gen. Khanh Gets Confidence Vote

SAIGON (AP)—South Viet Nam's strong man, Gen. Nguyen Khanh, won a vote of confidence Sunday from his ruling military council and promptly claimed the support of the nation's half-million armed forces.

Nevertheless, there was talk of opposition to him in the armed forces.

Khanh sought the vote at a special Sunday meeting of the council, but insisted to newsmen that his move was not motivated by any unrest in the armed forces he took over in a bloodless coup Jan. 30. He seemed elated by the vote.

"I received 53 votes from the 56-member council," he said. "Two of the members were out of the country so they didn't vote, and of course I did not vote for myself."

Military sources hinted that Khanh asked for the vote to counter opponents in the armed forces. Some members of the military have been ruffled by the blunt methods Khanh has used to prod the armed forces into action against the Communist Viet Cong.

They have also been annoyed by the recent border incident in which South Vietnamese forces hit a village in neighboring Cambodia. With a peacemaking delegation already in Cambodia, Khanh apologized for the incident.

Vietnamese sources said some senior officers resent Khanh's attempt to negotiate with Cambodia, a traditional enemy of South Viet Nam and a reputed haven for the Viet Cong.

Khanh also announced formation of a steering committee to handle the council's affairs. He is chairman, with the key post of Secretary-General going to Maj. Gen. Nguyen Van Thieu, a Khanh supporter.

Khanh said military endorsement of his policies "surely demonstrates the unity of not only our army but our navy, air force and paramilitary units."

He said representatives from all combat units were present at the council meeting.

Questioned on the progress of border negotiations with Cambodia, Khanh said he had received "good news" from the Vietnamese delegation now in Phnom Penh but declined to elaborate.

Khanh said disciplinary action may be taken against commanders of the units that entered a Cambodian border village last Thursday.

Landais said the famed statue will be repaired in time for the Tokyo debut April 8. Loaned by the French government as a gesture of friendship in connection with the Tokyo Olympics, it will be seen here until May 17, then go on view in Kyoto, the ancient capital, from May 21 to June 25.

Reversal Goal For Ruby Now

DALLAS (AP)—Veteran Texas criminal lawyer Percy Foreman, expressing cautious optimism that the death sentence assessed Jack Ruby will be reversed, had a two and a half hour conference in jail with his new client Sunday.

"I certainly hope to reverse the sentence. But it would be presumptuous for me to make a prediction. I do not have extra sensory perception," the 61-year-old Houston attorney who has replaced Melvin Bell as chief defense counsel said.

Joe Tonahill of Jasper and Phil Burleson of Dallas, who assisted Bell during Ruby's murder trial, spent an hour with Foreman and the convicted slayer of accused presidential assassin Lee Harvey Oswald.

Then the three attorneys held an afternoon conference in a hotel to map strategy in their request for a new trial.

Ruby, 52-year-old night club owner who killed Oswald Nov. 24 before a nationwide television audience, was to have been photographed with Foreman. But he sent a note from his cell to Sheriff Bill Decker saying "with due respect for all concerned, I do not desire to come down for photographs."

Foreman, who has handled more than 700 capital offense cases and lost only one defendant to the electric chair, said several weeks of study would be required to familiarize himself with the case.

Although he declined to discuss probable strategy, Foreman said that one point that would be stressed in seeking a new trial was that Ruby was a tried less than three months after the Oswald slaying.

"There is ample law to suggest that if the change of venue was denied, the trial should have been delayed," the 6-foot-4, gray-haired Foreman said. "If the case was to be tried in Dallas it should not have been tried for at least a year."

State Justice Department To Review Jobless Bill

HARRISBURG (AP)—The State Justice Department begins a detailed study of Gov. Scranton's unemployment compensation legislation Monday to double check against possible constitutional flaws.

The chief executive is expected to sign the bill into law as soon as justice puts its stamp of approval on it.

It is not certain yet when the bill will be completed.

"The Governor will get the bill back only after we have studied ourselves that there are no flaws," a spokesman said.

The U.C. bill was cleared for the Governor's signature Friday night in a tumultuous session of the house.

Democrat Defector One Democrat, Harold B. Rudisill, a Hanover attorney, joined with 105 Republicans to push the bill through exactly six days after it was passed by the Senate.

Later it was learned that Rudisill and Rep. Cecil K. Leber-

Rusk Assured Soviets Will Return U.S. Fliers

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dean Rusk said Sunday that the Soviet Union will return to U.S. control in the near future the remaining two of three fliers shot down over East Germany on March 10.

He did not say where or specifically when the return would take place.

The fliers are Capt. David L. Holland, 35, of Holland, Minn., and Melvin J. Kessler, 30, of Philadelphia. They were aboard an RB66 reconnaissance plane that wandered across the East German border and was shot down by Soviet fighters.

Holland, Kessler and the third member of the crew, Lt. Harold W. Welch, 24, of Detroit, parachuted to safety. Welch suffered a broken arm and leg and was freed by Soviet authorities Saturday in the face of increasing U. S. pressure for the return of all three.

Radio Announcement Rusk made his announcement on the CBS radio and television program "Face the Nation," and made it clear he now considers the issue closed.

"I would hope the matter will now be taken off the books," he said.

He said he had just been informed that Holland and Kessler "will be returned to the United States in the near future," and added, "They shortly will be back in this country."

The White House press office said there would be no comment Sunday on the fliers' release.

The secretary of state attributed the RB66's off-course flight to a navigational error—not a spying mission as the Russians charged — and said President Johnson has issued orders "to make certain that this doesn't recur."

No Details Rusk gave no details on how the return was arranged, but said it did not involve any exchange of personnel or concessions by the United States.

"They are simply releasing them. This pursued a normal course. The Soviets came to their own conclusion these men should be released," Rusk said.

From other sources it was learned that Rusk received the news from the Soviet Embassy, but the Russians did not immediately advise when or where the release would come. One possibility is that it might be through the U.S. military liaison office in Potsdam, East Germany. This office handled Welch's release.

Off Course Rusk acknowledged that the RB66 was 120 to 130 miles off course when attacked and expressed the hope that both the Communists and the Western forces would now adopt procedures to deal with such incidents in a more normal way if they happen in the future.

Communist planes have flown into Western air space too, but he had no figures on how many, he said.

The secretary sidestepped a question as to whether the United States had established the principle that the plane incident was a Soviet responsibility—not a matter to be taken up with the East Germans, whom the United States does not recognize.

Great Victory "This is one of the greatest victories a Pennsylvania governor ever achieved. It is purely a Scranton victory. We Republicans should now draft him for the biggest job in the world."

Thomas McCabe, chairman of the Scott Paper Co., a leading contributor to the GOP and one of Scranton's biggest backers, chimed in.

"I would think that throughout the nation people would be applauding his efforts in this particular instance because very few political leaders would display the daring and foresight that he has exhibited during his administration in Harrisburg."

But Scranton would not be drawn into comment on the matter—as it relates to his national image.

His attitude was that the legislation was a Pennsylvania issue and had no bearing on national politics.

Greeks Rap British For Neutral Stand

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP)—A top Cypriot official said Sunday the British peace-keeping unit was a failure because it tried to be neutral between Greek and Turkish Cypriots.

He expected the new U.N. force to "cooperate" with the republic's regular police and national guard which are made up of Greek Cypriots.

The views of Interior Minister Polykarpou Georgiadis, contained in an interview published Sunday, were the first public expression of how the Greek Cypriots interpret the role of the United Nations here.

They were printed as Palm Sunday brought a modicum of peace to this embattled island and U.N. Secretary-General U. Thant met in Geneva with Canadian Foreign Secretary Paul Martin to discuss naming a mediator for Cyprus.

Martin was particularly interested in this because Canada was the first nation to contribute troops to the U.N. Cyprus peace-keepers.

Canadian troops went out on their own for the first time Sunday.

French Canadian troops of the Royal 22nd Regiment were not accompanied by British soldiers in their tours of gunposts and fortifications in areas they are expected to patrol once the U.N. force is operational here.

Americans Flee Indian Rioting

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—American workers and their families fled Sunday from a tense spot in eastern India as thousands of government troops rushed in to stamp out a wave of Hindu-Muslim rioting, raping and looting.

Dozens of Indian army officers had their leave canceled and hurried to join the troop convoys headed for a series of eastern cities.

So far, 154 Indians have died in stone-throwing, clubbing and stabbing battles between Hindus and Muslims.

Twenty-nine American nationals were flown to Calcutta from the steel town of Rourkela in Orissa State, where the bloodiest fighting broke out after mobs attacked a trainload of Hindu refugees coming from Pakistan on Friday. They joined 45 other Americans, who had been helping to build a new steel mill in Rourkela, and who were flown to Calcutta on Saturday by the Indian air force.

Reports reaching New Delhi said they had barricaded themselves in a house when mobs ran wild through the streets. One American, identified as Konrad Facknitz, was dragged from a car and beaten up by rioters before he managed to escape to Calcutta.

Casualties in Rourkela included 53 Indians killed and more than 100 injured.

More than 1,500 troops patrolled Rourkela's quiet but uneasy streets Sunday as a series of reports filtered into New Delhi from that city.

One said the latest group of 29 Americans had fled after a rumor that they would be attacked because of the United States' role in the U.N. Security Council's recent debate on the disputed state of Kashmir.

Good Morning! Most of us know the answer. It's the questions that louse us up.

Uniform Rules Urged For Doe License Sales

HARRISBURG (AP)—The Pennsylvania Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs urged the legislature Saturday to adopt uniform regulations for the sale and distribution of doe licenses throughout the state.

The Federation, voting unanimously at its spring convention, noted in a resolution that the distribution of licenses "has been a serious problem for a number of years" because "county treasurers in each county set up different rules and regulations."

Licenses are limited by a rigid quota and each year the demand usually exceeds the supply. In some counties, mail orders are accepted while others sell the licenses over the counter.

The Federation suggested only mailed applications be accepted, although it did not particularly care whether it was on a draw basis or first-come-first-served.

May 15 Target Date To Open Sheltered Workshop

By Jeff Cox Daily Record Reporter (Ed. Note: This is the first in a series of two articles on the Burnley Workshop of the Pocono Area.)

STROUDSBURG — Ralph Burnley was a talented young man with a disease that blinded him — then killed him.

Ralph went blind when he was about 24. He didn't give up. He came back to town with a seeing eye dog and was given a job by Irving Karpe, who owned Karpe's Insurance at the time.

Ralph worked hard to learn skills he would need without sight. He became a valuable asset to the insurance firm — doing all sorts of jobs.

Ralph joined the Pocono Jaycees and used to volunteer for the most painstaking projects. He did them excellently.

When Ralph was 27 years old, in 1961, he died.

Even as he was dying, fate was conspiring to memorialize him: parents of retarded children in the area felt that these handicapped youths should have somewhere to go after school — somewhere that would offer them training and hope.

Dr. John A. Abbruzzese, county school psychologist talked to many of these parents and passed on their ideas to the Monroe County chapter of the Pennsylvania Assn. for Retarded Children.

Need Emphasized This group, under the leadership of Robert Owens and the late Tom Willis, decided that the county needed a Sheltered Workshop; a place where the handicapped could work.

At this time, the Jaycees were mulling over ways to make a fitting memorial to Ralph Burnley's courage and strength.

When the retarded children's association told the Jaycees about its plans for a Sheltered Workshop, Ralph Burnley's memorial was born.

It's now almost time for the workshop to open: May 15 has been set as a target date.

What is a workshop like this? "Place of Hope" Dr. Abbruzzese says it's "a place of hope — where the handicapped can be gainfully employed. It bolsters their egos, their self-respect, and gives them confidence in themselves. Their lives become meaningful to themselves and to the community."

"The workshop is not only going to help the handicapped, it will help the economy of the entire community."

With a workshop, many can be taught skills so they can get a job and earn a living wage.

Others, so badly handicapped that they can't get industrial employment, would stay in the workshop and earn a small wage. There they would feel useful, needed, and they would contribute.

Some people think that there aren't many such people in the community.

Enough Available They could fill 10 sheltered workshops.

Maybe someday there will be a workshop large enough to handle all the handicapped people in the area. Today the Ralph Burnley Workshop of the Pocono Area will handle about 15 to 25.

Dr. James Reed, chairman of the board of the Sheltered Workshop, tells this story about workshops: "I was talking with Stanley Whitehill, who's with the Easter Seal Society on the state level."

"He was instrumental in organizing the workshop in Chambersburg. He told me that a sheltered workshop is one of the most wonderful things that can happen to a community."

With the memory of Ralph Burnley to guide them, the Jaycees committed themselves to raise $50,000 toward the workshop.

Ray Roberts, past Jaycee president, Dr. Abbruzzese, and Gerald Weinstein of the state mental health association first tackled the county commissioners.

$5,000 Given There wasn't much of a fight. They got $5,000.

The Jaycees are still combing industries in the area for funds. From the way the workshop plans are progressing, they're not hitting much resistance anywhere.

Dr. Abbruzzese said that the Junior Women's Club "has given us over $1,000. They've held pancake sales and bazaars . . ."

Who will be given an opportunity at the workshop?

"On April 9 state experts on these workshops will come here to confer and look over the facilities. They'll send people to who need training," Dr. Reed said.

"The people who will be trained must be over 16 — eligible for employment. They must meet labor and industry standards. Raymond Beers is the local representative in the vocational and rehabilitational phase of local employment."

"The workshop will offer a dignified life for many people in the community who otherwise would not have had such a life. It's not only a human endeavor, but an economically sound endeavor," Dr. Reed said.

No one has been officially named to direct the workshop yet, but here are three jobs which will be available: director, production supervisor, and secretary.

The director's salary will be about $6,500 per year. The production supervisor will make about $4,800, and the secretary will make about $3,000.

Tomorrow: the current state of the workshop; where it's located the kinds of handicapped people to be helped, contracts with local industry, the future of the facility.

"Ray will screen the handicapped in the area to see whether they are eligible and feasible for training. If they are, he will recommend them for the workshop."

"The three main things the workshop will provide are training, therapy, and wages."

"The workshop will receive state aid from the mental health services based on the size of the workshop. This is allotted after we make application when the shop starts to run."

3 Sources "The three places the workshop will get money are through the county commissioners, through state aid, and through the local industries who pay for work done by the handicapped."

"Now, at the beginning, there is a fourth place: contributions to get the workshop going."

"The workshop will offer a dignified life for many people in the community who otherwise would not have had such a life. It's not only a human endeavor, but an economically sound endeavor," Dr. Reed said.

No one has been officially named to direct the workshop yet, but here are three jobs which will be available: director, production supervisor, and secretary.

The director's salary will be about $6,500 per year. The production supervisor will make about $4,800, and the secretary will make about $3,000.

Tomorrow: the current state of the workshop; where it's located the kinds of handicapped people to be helped, contracts with local industry, the future of the facility.

Hazleton Fears Repeat Murder

HAZLETON, Pa. (AP) — Thousands paid their last respects to nine-year-old Marise Chivorella Saturday as police hunted her killer.

The girl, buried in St. Joseph's cemetery after a requiem mass at the Most Precious Blood Roman Catholic Church, was raped and strangled by a man, who, police said, abducted her as she was going to school Wednesday.

Mrs. Arlene Boran, 34, a neighbor, told newsmen: "There's a deep fear that it might happen to another child." She added:

"Hazleton changed a little when someone killed that quiet and shy little girl who loved everybody."

The girl's body was found in an abandoned strip mine, about four miles from St. Joseph's parochial school.

Seranton 3rd In Mock Convention

ONFORD, Ohio (AP) — Gov. William Seranton of Pennsylvania garnered 183 votes on the second ballot, finishing third behind Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona and Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge in the presidential nomination voting at Miami University's mock GOP convention Saturday.

Lodge won the nomination with 573 votes. It takes 655 to nominate.

On the first presidential ballot Seranton was third with 206 votes.

Lawyers Honor Musmanno

CHICAGO (AP) — Justice Michael A. Musmanno of Pennsylvania's supreme court was presented Sunday night with the 29th annual man-of-the-year award by the Decalogue Society of Lawyers.

Previous recipients include former President Harry S. Truman, United Nations Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson, Albert Einstein, Eleanor Roosevelt and Sen. Jacob Javits, R-N.Y.

Musmanno, in accepting the award, said the Decalogue stands for the word of the ten commandments and declared no nation would need an army or navy if "the ten commandments were taken to heart and obeyed by all peoples."

Liquor Employees, Notaries Named

HARRISBURG — The State Liquor Control Board has approved two Civil Service appointments and a promotion for area residents, including:

F. J. Tarnopolski, 111 West Main St., Stroudsburg, and T. T. Schultz, R.D. 1, Saylorsburg, appointed liquor store clerks at biweekly salaries of $136.50.

UC Bill Changes Outlined

HARRISBURG (AP) — Here are some of the major features of the unemployment compensation revisions approved by the legislature:

Financing — Tax rate — Changed from 2 to 4 per cent to 1 to 4 per cent with low-turnover employers paying the lower rate. New firms enter at 2.7 per cent and construction contractors enter at 4 per cent.

Tax base — The amount of annual employee wages upon which the rate is assessed is raised from $3,000 to $3,600.

Anticipated increase — The changes are expected to add a net of $35 million to the fund the first year and lesser amounts in succeeding years, depending on unemployment rates.

Effective date — The taxes, paid entirely by employers, are retroactive to Jan. 1, 1964.

Benefit changes — Effective date — The changes apply only to benefit years beginning before July 1, 1964.

Saving to the fund — The changes are expected to reduce benefit payouts a net of $28.5 million annually. Tighter eligibility requirements will decrease payouts $35 million but increase in weekly benefits will offset that by $24.4 million.

Weekly benefits — Maximum weekly payments will be increased from $40 to $45. The minimum weekly payment remains $10.

Fifty per cent limitation — A claimant may not receive in total benefits an amount more than 50 per cent of wages earned in his base year.

Duration — Thirty weeks is still the maximum for payments, but it is no longer uniform. The 50 per cent of wages limit will have the effect of reducing to as few as 16 weeks the duration of some benefit years.

Qualifying wages — A new table and other changes, in effect, require a claimant to work 18 weeks to be eligible. The table, however, reduces the amount of qualifying wages for weekly benefits of $25 or more but increased the amount of wages needed for benefits below $25 weekly.

Seasonal workers — Original proposals to eliminate persons employed in such seasonal industries as resorts, cranberry and agriculture were eliminated. But other qualifying provisions work against such claimants.

Second round — A second round of benefits will continue to be permitted provided a claimant can earn the equivalent of 25 days' wages anytime within his benefit year.

Step down — A claimant who fails to earn sufficient wages to qualify for benefits in 18 weeks will be permitted to "step down" the table once to the equivalent of 17 weeks. Present law permits up to six weeks of "step downs." But the new benefit table, with its lower wage requirements for most claimants partially offsets the one step down limit.

Pensioners — Persons forced to retire will have their weekly U.C. benefit reduced partially. Fifty per cent of social security payments, pro-rated on a weekly basis, will be reduced. Fifty per cent of employer-employee paid pensions will be deducted.

Harris Poll

Americans Fear Ruby, Oswald Tie

THE HARRIS SURVEY by Louis Harris

Before the Jack Ruby jury had reached its own verdict, the American people, by better than 2 to 1, had become convinced that Ruby was not temporarily insane when he shot and killed Lee Harvey Oswald, the alleged assassin of President Kennedy.

However, four in 10 people harbor suspicions that there was some kind of connection between Ruby and Oswald that will be forever sealed if and when Ruby ultimately goes to the electric chair.

When asked what motivated Jack Ruby, a cross-section of the American people divided this way on Ruby's purported insanity:

Belief in Ruby Insanity	Total Public Per Cent
When he shot Oswald: Ruby was insane.....24
Ruby not insane.....56
Not sure.....20

The sanity of Ruby, of course, was the pivotal issue in his recent murder trial in Dallas. The defense went to great pains to bring in testimony from expert witnesses claiming that the former nightclub operator showed sure signs of at least temporary insanity.

"The prosecution met this testimony head-on with counter-claims from other experts that Ruby was not mad when he shot Oswald."

The jury, made up of citizens of Dallas, finally decided that Ruby was not insane on Nov. 24, 1963, when he killed Oswald. What went through the minds of the jury will likely never be known — and properly so, according to American judicial ethics.

The thinking of a cross-section of Americans, however, reveals some perhaps unexpected dimensions. When people were asked to state what they believed were the reasons for Ruby to have killed Oswald, the result turned up a fairly widespread suspicion that there is more to the Ruby-Oswald relationship than was revealed at the trial.

A sunspot is a great vortex of gas on the sun's surface. One spot seen in 1947 measured 200,000 miles in diameter.

A full deduction will be made from pensions financed entirely by employers.

New mothers — Working mothers will be required to work two weeks after the birth of children to re-establish eligibility for benefits unless their employer has a mass layoff or shutdown.

Vacation pay — Persons receiving vacation pay will not be eligible for benefits in periods of plant vacation shutdowns.

Severance pay — Claimants receiving severance pay at termination of employment will not be eligible for U.C. benefits until their pay is exhausted at their average weekly rate of salary.

Extended benefit weeks — The number of benefit weeks will be extended if 1.75 per cent (about 52,000) of covered workers exhaust their benefits in a 13-week period. The maximum number of extended weeks will be 13, with the highest total weeks fixed at 39.

Search for work — The Bureau of Employment Security is given authority to establish rules to determine whether a claimant is actively seeking work.

Why Ruby Killed Oswald

Total Public Per Cent
To keep him quiet.....23
Some connection between two.....17
Temporarily insane.....13
Mentally disturbed.....11
To get attention.....7
Felt badly about assassination.....7
Put up to it.....4
Vicious person.....4
Not sure.....20

(NOTE: Totals add to more than 100% because some people mentioned more than one motive.)

At the trial, of course, the major thrust of the defense was to try to prove Ruby's insanity. The prosecution had a double-barreled objective: to disprove defense contentions on the sanity score and, at the same time, to establish that Ruby's intent to kill Oswald was premeditated.

Little, however, was said by either side about any possible connection between Ruby and Oswald. Perhaps the ultimate answer to public suspicions on this point will be contained in the Warren Commission investigation covering the Kennedy assassination.

The role of television in the Ruby trial created a controversy, especially on the final day when the jury's verdict was carried live by the networks. When asked whether all or any part of the Ruby trial should have been televised, the American public split right down the middle:

On Televising The Ruby Trial	Total Public Per Cent
Should have been televised.....44
Not televised.....44
Not sure.....12

The reasoning of those favoring live TV coverage was simply a desire not to miss the proceedings. Public interest in the trial ran high. The reasoning of those opposed to televising the Ruby trial was more considered: the fear that TV would make the trial a spectacle, that it would change due process and court procedures, even about justice in the end.

Goddard Urges Cleanup Along Streams, Rivers

HARRISBURG — Forests and Waters Secretary Maurice K. Goddard today urged all state citizens "to clean up trash and debris along all our streams and rivers after a long, hard winter."

Secretary Goddard said "good housekeeping practices" would "go a long way" toward preventing a rash of woods blazes as the spring forest fire season approaches.

"The recent high water deposited quite a bit of trash and rubbish along the streams and rivers of the Commonwealth," Goddard said. "If this debris is removed and burned under adequate care and supervision, it will mean less chance for forest fires to start, and less for the fires to feed upon."

The Lenten Story

HE IS RISEN AS HE SAID

Early in the morning, just as the sun was rising over the lip of Calvary's hill, Mary Magdalene and Mary, the mother of James, went to the tomb to anoint the body with spices. On the way, they wondered, "Who will roll the stone back from the doorway of the tomb for us?"

Arriving at the tomb, they were astonished to find that the stone had been rolled back. Inside sat a young man clothed in radiant white garments. His face shone so that the women were afraid.

"Do not be afraid," he said to them, "for I know that you seek Jesus who was crucified. He is not here, for He is risen as He said. Come see the place where the Lord was laid. And go quickly and tell His disciples that He has risen; and behold, He goes before you into Galilee. There you shall see Him." (Matthew XXVIII:5-8)

He was the second 17-year-old East Stroudsburg youth to shoot himself within a week.

"Durant died of a self-inflicted gunshot wound from a borrowed .22 caliber revolver. The bullet entered the right temple and lodged in the head," explained John C. F. Foelker, Monroe County Coroner. There will be no autopsy, he said.

East Stroudsburg police said they did not know where he got the revolver.

The youth had lived at 117 Center St., East Stroudsburg, with his grandfather Joseph D. O'Donnell, Sr. He was taken to the General Hospital of Monroe County where he died at 10:55 p.m. Saturday.

Joseph Luzzi, 17, of 270 Mary St., East Stroudsburg, had died of a self-inflicted gunshot wound from a .22 caliber rifle a week ago Sunday, March 15, at 12:50 a.m. in the General Hospital of Monroe County.

Found in Bedroom
 Durant was found lying on the bedroom floor of a grandfater's home about 8 p.m. Saturday by his mother Helen Durant and an aunt, Mrs. Barbara O'Donnell.

Maureen O'Donnell, another aunt, was also in the home at the time.

He was born in East Stroudsburg, a son of Ralph and Helen O'Donnell Durant. He had lived in East Stroudsburg for the past six years and was a member of St. Matthew's Catholic Church.

Nurses Services To Pupils In Monroe Cost $30,149

Record Harrisburg Bureau
HARRISBURG — Nurses' services to pupils in Monroe County schools cost $30,149.30 for the 1962-63 school year.

This sum has been paid from state funds through the State Department of Health to school districts in this county for these services, the department said yesterday.

Of this amount $11,298.00 was paid to Stroud Union for services to pupils in its schools. Payments from state funds cover costs of these services to school districts up to $3.50 per pupil in average daily membership in a school in the school year.

The basis of payment was changed by the 1961 Legislature to cover per pupil costs up to a maximum of $3.50 from a method previously used which was similar to that of reimbursement for teachers. That method provided a minimum of one nurse for each 1,500 pupils. Based on payments to school districts up to this time reimbursement from state funds for nurses' services in the 1962-63 school term has averaged about $1.30 per pupil or approximately $1.00 more than payments under the previous plan, according to the department.

Nurses' services are provided pupils of parochial and non-profit private schools as well as to public school pupils. Services to pupils other than those in public schools are given through the public schools. Payments from state funds are made to public school districts for all pupils receiving the services.

Monroe County school districts in addition to Stroud Union received state funds for nurses' services for the 1962-63 school year as follows:

East Stroudsburg Area Joint, $8,230.49; Pleasant Valley Joint, $2,768.50; Pocono Mountain Joint, $7,532.31.

"I understand this is similar to the information centers used by other states that are catering to the resort and travel business. I am sure you know the great need for this project because of the impact on our economy by the resort and travel business. Can you tell me how this project is progressing and when we can expect it to be in operation."

Bible As Literature

The Supreme Court decision banning reading of the Bible and recital of the Lord's Prayer in required public school classroom religious ceremonies threatens to completely erase reading, study and discussion of the Bible as great literature in public schools.

It is a natural reaction for state education departments and local school administrators to shy away from the Bible as a controversial, legal hot potato.

But Catholics, Protestants and Jews must agree on an acceptable translation which can be taught as a necessary part of English and literature courses.

Some method of teaching the Bible's influence on literature and art is possible without engaging in theological disputes or religious teaching objectionable to any minority group.

We believe the Supreme Court decision against required religious rituals in public schools was correct. But that decision does not and should not put an end to teaching of the Bible as literature in public schools.

Amazing ignorance of Biblical names and events among high school students in Newtown, Mass., was reported in "The English Journal" and Time Magazine recently.

After a surprise 112-question quiz on the Bible, the teacher reported:

"Several pupils thought that Sodom and Gomorrah were lovers; that the four horsemen appeared on the Acropolis; that the gospels were written by Matthew, Luther and John; that Eve was created from an apple; that Jesus was baptized by Moses; that Jezebel was Ahab's donkey; and that the stories by which Jesus taught were called parodies."

Ninety-three per cent of the juniors and seniors taking college preparation courses could not finish the Biblical quotation, "The love of money is the root of all . . ."

Similar or worse scores would probably be made in other American high schools.

The whole fault does not lie with the public schools. Many Protestant Sunday schools ignore the Bible itself and use second-hand, watered-down religious education material.

Many religious leaders who agreed with the Supreme Court decision said that teaching of the Bible is first a responsibility of parents and churches. But the job is not done well by either.

If public schools do not incorporate the teaching of the literature of the Bible into the teaching of English and Western literature, we will soon have a whole generation of "educated" students who cannot understand "The Messiah," "The Last Supper," Christmas, Easter or the Bible itself.

Kennedy Half Dollars

John F. Kennedy half dollars will be distributed to banks Tuesday. They are certain to add to the U. S. Treasury's coin hoarding problem.

Coin collectors, Kennedy fans and many Americans who would not think twice about a half dollar coin will put these half dollars in their pockets and leave them there, or show them away as mementos.

The Treasury plans to mint 90 million new 50 cent pieces this year and a total of 4.6 billion coins, including 50 million new silver dollars.

The public doesn't realize it, but making enough coins to go around is not a simple matter for U. S. Treasury mints.

Editorial Research Reports, a Washington news service, points out that:

"We live in a coin-operated economy, proliferate vending machines, jukeboxes, parking meters, coin telephones, self-service laundries and cleaners, and pay toilets.

"All of these not only devour but briefly immobilize coins. Shopping in supermarkets and discount houses for cash creates new demand for coins. So does what has been called the $2.98 pricing policy.

The need for coins is rising at a fantastic rate.

During the 1950's, a total of 14.1 billion coins were minted. But in the four years 1960 to 1963, 12.7 billion were made and the rate is increasing.

So, if you want to join the economy drive in Washington, take your piggy bank to your bank today and don't hoard Kennedy half dollars. Take just one for your grandchildren.

The Pennsylvania Story

Pity Poor Ashland

By Mason Denton
HARRISBURG — Last Wednesday in this column we pointed to the fact that the "benevolent taxpayers" of Pennsylvania are about to build a brand new $5,000,000 hospital for the people of Ashland, Schuylkill County — via replacement of the existing state-owned and operated Ashland State General (not mental) Hospital.

However we missed a point that never occurred to us. The Somerset Daily American very succinctly brought out the point in an editorial alongside the column last Wednesday. This is that editorial, entitled, "Pity Poor Ashland":

"Although there are many times when we are in complete agreement with Mason Denton, we believe that today's Pennsylvania Story totally ignores an important facet of state aid.

"It is our belief that the $5 million general hospital which is to be built in Ashland will make the people there poorer instead of richer. Sure, Somerset County dollars will be used, and we can be almost certain that no word of gratitude will come to us from Ashland.

"In a sense, Somerset County — as well as citizens from other parts of the state — may feel that they have been cheated, in reality, however, it is the folks who have had general hospitals handed to them by the state who have been robbed. They have not been robbed of their money, but of something which means far more to character and to the achievement of happiness than money can possibly mean. They have been robbed of the privilege of giving to build their own hospital.

"We always appreciate that which we support by our giving more than that which is given to us. Consequently, Meyersdale, Somerset, and Windber have a far greater appreciation of their respective hospitals than do Ashland or nearby Conneville or any of the other state general hospitals.

"Within the past 30 or so years the folks here in Somerset, remodelled, built, rebuilt, and added a new wing to a hospital which originally was two dwellings that had been connected together.

"The pride and satisfaction which resulted from the transformation is something which money could not buy. This is what the state is depriving the people of Ashland from having. We are perfectly willing to go a step further and say that this is also true of every one of the other nine hospitals which the state owns and operates.

"As we think about our taxes, and the heavy load we are called upon to bear, we may be tempted to complain. When, however, we think in terms of what our giving has done for us, we should realize that it is we who are blessed rather than those 10 unfortunate communities which have been robbed of the privilege of building and maintaining a general hospital.

"We are living in an era when getting seems to be of more importance than giving, and this is regrettable.

"For those who are so minded — and for the people of Ashland and the other nine communities of the state who have been robbed by those who endeavored to help them — we call attention to this epitaph of Edward Courtenay, Earl of Devonshire:

"What we gave, we have; What we spent, we had; What we left, we lost. "He is truly poor who has not learned that it is more blessed to give than to receive."

(ED NOTE: The ten "general" hospitals owned and operated by the State are located, in addition to Ashland, at Blossburg, Conneville, Conneville, Hazleton, Locust Mountain, Nanticoke, Phillipsburg, Scranton and Shamokin. Originally the hospitals were established to treat miners but now serve as general hospitals.)

WASHINGTON — The Johnson Administration is launching one of the most intensive world-wide "man-hunts" in the past ten years.

U. S. intelligence-military-diplomatic authorities are seeking to pinpoint the whereabouts of all U. S. citizens who have defected to Russia or satellite countries since the end of World War II.

This secret information is being gathered on 137 U. S. defectors, including a number of American women, by the Defense Department, State Department, Justice Department and the Central Intelligence Agency.

The Allen-Scott Report

U.S. Defectors

Paul Scott

Triggered by the Warren Commission's probe of the assassination of the late President Kennedy, this four-pronged intelligence inquiry is designed to determine how many of these defectors have been permitted to return to the U. S.

Since more than half of the defectors are either military deserters or former U. S. government employees, the four agencies are checking to see how many of the "turncoats" might be potential Lee Harvey Oswalds, similar to the suspected assassin of President Kennedy.

Oswald, an admitted Marxist, defected to the Soviet Union in 1959, after serving in the Marine Corps. After living in Russia more than 2½ years, Oswald was allowed to return to the U. S. in 1962 by a high-level State Department official. The official also arranged a government loan to pay for Oswald's return trip with wife and baby.

The Wanted List—This surveillance list of 137 U. S. defectors, which is still under preparation is expected to grow to more than 200 before it is completed. Some intelligence experts believe the list will exceed 500.

Already, it carries the names of the ten "most wanted," including three former employees of the super-secret National Security Agency.

The NSA defector trio—Bernon F. Mitchell, William H. Martin and Victor Hamilton—are all reported to be in the Soviet Union where they have been assigned to breaking U. S. codes.

Others on the "most wanted" list are Captain Alfred Svenson, Master Sergeant William E. Valentini, Robert E. Webster, Alberto Ricciardelli, Marilyn Dorothea Murrett, Betty Jane Myers and Shirley Dubinsky.

Communist East Germany is using the two U. S. Army defectors — Captain Svenson and Master Sergeant Valentini — as starring attractions for a new wave of violent anti-American propaganda.

Military records show that Captain Svenson, a former battalion intelligence officer with the Third Armored Division, defected in 1963. He was traced to East Germany, where he is appearing on the Communist radio, charging that the U. S. plan to give atomic weapons to West Germany to wage war against the Soviet bloc.

Master Sergeant Valentini, Lorain, Ohio, was serving with the 504th Signal Battalion at Mannheim when he defected. At the time he was awaiting trial by general court-martial for misappropriation of government funds and being absent without leave. He has just written an article for the East German army newspaper, "Volksarmee," charging the U. S. with "preparing for war."

A Hundred Military Cases—Svenson and Valentini are two of more than 100 known cases of defection by U. S. servicemen since the end of World War II. This figure, which is not complete, does not include prisoners of war (as in Korea) who defected.

One of the most mysterious of the "most wanted" defectors is Robert Webster, an ex-serviceman and superior marksman who defected in 1959, around the same time as Oswald. Webster's whereabouts aren't known at this time. One intelligence estimate indicates he may have slipped back into the U. S.

Information on most of the other defectors is sketchy and incomplete except for the three NSA "turncoats," reported to be in the Soviet Union. The growing list of defectors indicates that Cuba has become a haven for many of them. Former U. S. citizens now in Cuba include:

Robert Braun Walder, Detroit, an atomic scientist; Mrs. Barbara Collins, daughter of a New Jersey minister; Ilah Warner, Spearfish, S.D., teacher; Robert Franklin Williams, Monroe, N.C., fugitive from U. S. justice.

New FCC Authority — The Federal Communications Commission is seeking sweeping authority from Congress to dictate how to make television sets, radios and other electrical or electronic devices.

Dollar
A one-ounce silver coin was minted in 1919 at Joachimstal, Bohemia. The new coin, minted by order of the Count of Schlick, became the European standard for weight and purity. Because it was minted at Joachimstal, the coin was called a "Joachimsthaler," a name that was shortened to "thaler." In German, "thaler" had several variations, among them "daler" and "dalar," which became "dollar" in English.

Spain was one of several countries to adopt the new coin. Because of extensive trade with Spanish colonies in the West Indies, Colonial American merchants dealt more in Spanish dollars than in English pounds. So when the American colonies formed the United States and adopted a monetary system, it was based on the dollar.

DEAR ABBY: I recently visited a young dentist who was recommended to me by a friend. When I got into the chair, rock and roll music started playing right in my ear. I am a million, 68, and I never listen to that kind of music at home as it is nerve-racking. I enjoy soft, semi-classical music, however. I debated whether I should ask the dentist to shut it off, but decided not to say anything. Then the dentist started HUMMING along with the music! I didn't want to upset him while he was working on my teeth, so I kept silent. I wish there were some way to let him know why I never went back to him, although he was a good dentist.

Speaking Of Your Health:

Ray Of Hope

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.
New hope is in the offing for the gallant patients who have been confined to a "wheel chair life."

These patients are symbols of endless resourcefulness, hope and courage.

A famous baseball player's exemplary fortitude after having his activity curtailed by an auto accident and the brave endurance of an Olympic star whose ambitions were suddenly destroyed in a tram-pole accident are both illustrations of this valiant spirit.

A new ray of hope for all paraplegics comes from the newly acquired knowledge that "nerve regeneration" has been partially performed experimentally.

At a convention of Canada's Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons, a report on this exciting scientific research was presented by Dr. William J. O'Callaghan of the University of Alberta.

The process of nerve regeneration has been studied for 50 years and stubbornly refused to reveal its secrets. Diligent scientific efforts to discover the mysteries of this process were made even more urgent by the thousands of energetic, vital young men incapacitated by war injuries.

Neurological diseases also produce a great number of wheel chair paraplegics.

The new knowledge recently acquired by complicated research techniques will be the springboard for further elaborate tests in the hope that eventually the many courageous human paraplegics can once again walk the earth.

WATER RETENTION
Edema is the unusual accumulation of excess fluid in body tissues. The causes of edema are many and varied. Alterations in metabolism (body function), hormone imbalance, salt and fluid intake, heart, liver and kidney conditions may produce edema.

Medications known as diuretics are carefully chosen for the rapid elimination of such excess fluid through the urine; this is done only after the exact cause has been determined.

Safe And Effective
These diuretics are safe and very effective when their dosage is established under strict control of the physician. The diuretic treatment is sometimes continued for long periods of time, until the basic disorder is remedied and the fluid level stabilized.

A new and highly effective diuretic was recently discovered. The new chemical, called Ethacrynic, holds great promise for treating certain cases of edema that have resisted other drugs — notably chronic conditions caused by malfunction of the heart or kidneys.

Astonishing Success
The new drug has been safely used in conjunction with other known diuretics with astonishing success. A single injection dramatically reduced by 15 pounds the fluid collection of a patient.

All newly discovered drugs are always checked and rechecked by physicians and scientists for their effectiveness and safety, before being used universally. Ethacrynic acid is still under strict surveillance, even during this period of enthusiasm.

These columns are designed to relieve your fears about health through a better understanding of your mind and body. All the hopeful new advances in medicine reported here are known to doctors everywhere.

Your individual medical problems should be handled by your own doctor. He knows you best.

Stroudsburg Boomerang

WASHINGTON—Mrs. Helen Bruch, a prominent matron of Stroudsburg, Pa., telephoned the other day to her son, Charles, who is associate editor of Public Utilities Fortnightly here in Washington.

Mrs. Bruch mentioned one of her son's former classmates who, ever since schooldays, has manifested a wholesome distaste for gainful employment.

"This will startle you," began Mrs. Bruch. "Your old schoolmate has landed a dilly of a job."

"You can't mean it!" gasped Editor Bruch. "Where is he working?"

"At the boomerang factory," Editor Bruch began to sputter with excitement, but his mother reproved him for such levity.

"There is nothing funny about it," said Mrs. Bruch. "It's a very serious matter."

Mr. Bruch controlled his spasms long enough to ask his mother where the boomerang factory was located. Mrs. Bruch said she didn't exactly know, but that it was somewhere in the surrounding Delaware Water Gap-Pocono Mountain region.

Not fully satisfied with this, Mr. Bruch contacted Rep. Fred B. Rooney, whose 15th

District takes in the resort area.

The Democratic Mr. Rooney, who lives in Bethlehem, said the boomerang factory was in a placid little vale called Cherry Valley, about three miles from Stroudsburg, but that was all he knows about it, except that it is possibly smaller than his district's other industry, Bethlehem Steel.

"But the boomerang factory is a going concern," declared Rep. Rooney. "If there ever is a kangaroo explosion in the 15th District we'll be ready to cope with it."

Mr. Bruch, who reads the newspapers, as well as utilities reports, suggested that the boomerang factory make a commercial tie-up with Melvin Bell, former chief counsel for Dallas slayer Jack Ruby.

When this simple, clear-cut statement seemed unclear to Rep. Rooney, Mr. Bruch carefully explained:

"Attorney Bell denounced the trial of Ruby as a kangaroo court. He obviously has strong feelings against kangaroo courts and might push the sales of boomerangs to counter them."

When all this was reported to me, I felt there were gaps in the saga of the boomerang

Bangor High Grad Returns To Sing

By Armon Williams
Record Correspondent

BANGOR — The 90-voice Penn State Glee Club is giving a concert in the hometown of its busiest member — Monday night, Blaine F. Shover, of Bangor R.D. 2, a senior in music education, holds no less than three of the famed organization's most important offices — president, manager, and accompanist.

The Glee Club, directed by Frank Gullo, will combine a program of sacred and secular selections at the Bangor Area Senior High School auditorium at 8 p.m., Monday, under the auspices of the Bangor Exchange Club.

Shover's "triple-threat" leadership in just this one area of his numerous Penn State activities comes as no surprise to many Bangor area residents. They recall similar manifestations of musical ability and student activity leadership from his Bangor Area High School days.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Shover, he was a member of the B.A.H.S. Class of 1960, was the school organist, class president during his sophomore year, and a very active member of the band, mixed chorus, and National Honor Society.

At Penn State, he recently won the significant honor of election to Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges.

In addition to his Glee Club offices, he is also president of Phi Mu Alpha, national professional men's music honorary; president of Skull and Bones, men's leadership honorary, and ritual officer of Alpha Chi Rho, a social fraternity.

Company A Gets Civilian Tech Employee

STROUDSBURG — Company A, 6th Battalion, United States Army Reserve, of Stroudsburg, has begun full-time operation with the addition of a civilian employee.

Frank M. Chrobak, 20, of 908 Lloyd St., Avoca, began his duties as Administrative Supply Technician last week at the unit at 753 Bank Alley.

He will maintain day-time operation of the center each weekday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Chrobak was transferred to Stroudsburg from the Clearfield USAR Center, Clearfield, Pa., where he spent two years doing similar work.

Before his stint at Clearfield, he worked five years at the Capitol Record Company in Scranton.

Chrobak is a former serviceman. He spent four years in the Air Force, finishing with the rank of Airman First Class.

He did duty in Greenland, and at Pope Air Force Base, North Carolina; Clovis Air Force Base in New Mexico, and at Springfield, Mass.

He is in a civil service position at the unit, the first full-time employee the Stroudsburg unit has ever had, coming under the jurisdiction of the civilian section of the Department of the Army.

Processing Enlistments
His duties at the unit will include the handling and processing of enlistments, recruiting, and working with dependent problems.

He will also do much of the clerical work of the company, filing of regulations, forms, papers, and other Army correspondence.

He is married and has two boys.

The full-time operation of the center means that interested persons who wish to inquire about joining the unit may stop in at any time during weekday operational hours.

The individual's six-year obligation to the armed forces may be served by taking several months active duty and the remainder of the time attending reserve meetings at his home unit.

The length of active duty depends upon the time required to train the individual in the military occupational specialty he has chosen. The minimum time of active duty is four months, and the maximum is determined by the MOS assigned to the member.

The recruit will know the length of his active duty requirement before enlistment.

Admitted to membership this year were: Paul J. Healey of Gouldsboro; Martin V. Kearney of Stroudsburg; John R. Miller of Moscow; William H. Post Jr. of Mt. Pocono; and Chester C. Sebring Jr. of Bartonsville.

Also honored at the meeting were: 15 year members Edward Lyons of Stroudsburg; James E. Morrison of Moscow, and John R. Wilson Jr. of Delaware Water Gap; and 30 year member — Earl W. Trumbauer of Star Route, Hawley.

Driverless Car Falls In Creek

STROUDSBURG — A driverless car slipped its brakes while parked in front of the Arlington Diner Saturday at 4:15 p.m., slowly drifted back across three lanes of busy Rt. 611 in Stroud Township, missed all traffic and ended up in a creek.

H. W. Tebbis, Stroud Township police chief, said the owner of the car, Leon H. McVannan of Stroudsburg RD 5, was in the diner when the emergency brake apparently slipped and the car drifted across the highway. Tebbis said damage amounted to $25.

Paint Your Boat's Life Preserver

Ahoy boat owners: If October marks the finish of your boating season, it's time to check the finish of your boat. The purpose of marine finishes is to protect and preserve a boat under all conditions, including dry-dock. Unless a craft is properly prepared beforehand, off-season storage can be as damaging as in-season activity. If you allow dry-dock damage to take its course, you'll pay a heavy toll next season. In addition, proper preparation now means an early start in the Spring.

First step in storage preparation is to give your boat a good bath. The sooner you do it after taking the craft out of water, the easier it will be on elbow grease because the accumulated dirt, tar and marine growth will not have a chance to harden. Be sure to banish all the barnacles which soften and rot the wood. When the bottom, topsides and inside have been thoroughly soap and water scrubbed, wash or hose down the boat with clear water.

Next, check from stem to stern for gouges, deep cracks or dents. Repair the damaged spots with a good marine dough or caulking compound filler. Let the patches harden, then sandpaper smooth. Look for any protruding compound or fillings which should be shaved down. Check the fastenings; loose ones should be secured or replaced.

On a fiber-glass covered craft, loose edges must be smoothed and patched before painting. An aluminum boat should be examined at the seams to be sure all rivets are secured tightly before painting — and painting is the best means of protecting this type boat from corrosion and pits.

PICTURED is a spring display of Flexalum Awnings, Sterling Railings and Columns along with a good representation of combination screen-storm windows and doors. These aluminum products are sold by the county's oldest distributor, Joseph G. DeRenzis & Son, Stroudsburg, where quality, service and workmanship still come first.

Trailer Club Prepares For Parking At Space Near The World's Fair

BAKERSFIELD, Calif. — There will be ample parking for as many as 21 days and nights within 45 minutes drive of the New York World's Fair for at least 2,500 travel trailers at the Wally Byam Caravan Club International Rally.

The total parking cost for all 21 days: $36 per trailer. Included in the three weeks will be a two-week period devoted to what is sure to be the largest, most awesome single event in all of trailerdom: the Seventh International Rally of the WBCC.

That event could draw 2,500 Airstream travel trailers, or more than 7,500 individual club members. Last year's 'Sixth International Rally saw 2,000 Airstreams assemble at Bemidji, Minn. — without the added attraction of a World's Fair.

Such are the flat and unqualified promises made here this month by Enos Axtell, international president of the travel trailer club. Axtell and three of his vice presidents have completed a seven-week tour of the New York area, including the World's Fair site at Flushing, New York. They report that all basic arrangements for the gigantic rally and World's Fair parking are now complete.

Rally Site

Officially the Seventh International Rally of the WBCC will begin June 22. As early as June 15, however, members of the club may enter the rally site at Skillman, N.J., Axtell said. Skillman is an adjoining suburb of Princeton, N.J. The rally site is within easy commuting distance of the World's Fair either by private automobile or readily available bus and train transportation.

Adequate supplies of water, daily deliveries of newspapers, milk, bread and bakery goods and a means of sewage disposal are all available at the travel trailer rally site Axtell said.

In addition to the World's Fair, there will be many local attractions in the Princeton area. Among these are the New Jersey Tercentenary and Fair held coincidentally with the World's Fair and the International Rally. A highlight of the New Jersey events will be a Festival of Music on the Westminster Choir College campus from June 15 to July 5.

The New York World's Fair, however, will be the biggest off-site attraction for the WBCC members. Fully aware of this, Axtell said that his rally team has arranged for a "Wally Byam Caravan Club Day."

So far, five months from the event, 7,500 tickets have been sold to WBCC members.

Formal Opening

Despite the glamour of the Fair, the attractions in New Jersey — not to mention New York City — the WBCC International Rally refuses to be dwarfed as an attraction for the nation's Airstream owners. Beginning with a formal opening ceremony June 29, the rally will provide a dazzling array of programmed events, according to the clubs president.

Among these are the traditional "Teen Queen Contest, a beauty and talent competition among the daughters and granddaughters of the Caravan Club members; a Fantastic WBCC unit parade containing "floats of incredible complexity lasting two hours; talent shows and exhibitions of hobbies and crafts; a large sentimental tribute to the memory of the club's late namesake, Wally Byam, on the occasion of his July 4 birthday; and many other events.

Although most of the activities of the rally will be aimed at the total membership, there will be specialized group events too. The club will make special provision for its young people and children. In addition to the Teen Queen Contest, which involves hundreds besides actual contestants, there will be special parties, dances and competitive games. Arrangements have been made for a playground for the younger ones, with sand boxes, slides, swings, story-telling sessions and general supervised fun.

cial area affectionately called "Canine Heights". There the pets will be free of the many restraints that would otherwise be required. Undoubtedly there will be a pet show during the rally.

The newly formed Radio Club will meet and set national policy. Owners of the little Honda "Cubs" and other makes of small cycles and motor scooters will have their sessions. Finally, most of the nation's 70 local units will arrange to meet as individual groups to enjoy the company and companionship of familiar faces.

Religious services are traditionally stressed during Wally Byam Caravan Club activities. During the rally a special church committee has arranged for both Catholic and non-denominational Protestant services at the site. Information and help in attending other religious services of the site will also be available, according to Enos Axtell.

More than 100 WBCC members will form a religious choir during the rally. The ladies will wear white dresses with Airstream blue capes and blue berets, while the men wear dark suits and berets.

Professional entertainment will be provided from the New York area. Headliners from the fields of music, comedy and the theatre have often done shows at the rally sites in past years. Last year a whole theatrical group performed "Straw Hat" fashion for the Wally Byam Caravanners.

Between these events, and others not yet announced, the WBCC will conduct its annual business. This will include the election of a slate of new international officers, the adoption of proposed by-law changes and the selection of the site for the 1965 Eighth International Rally.

Choice of the rally site will be eagerly awaited. It is likely that representatives of a number of United States and Canadian cities will be present to offer arguments in favor of their town's selection. Playing host to a WBCC rally is considered both enjoyable and economically profitable to a city.

People-Watching Piece Stirs Wide Reader Interest

By Roberta Fleming Roesch
We've decided that people-watching is a national office problem, judging from the response we received from a column we wrote recently on people-watching employees who mind everybody's business.

"My first impulse on reading that column was to post it on the office bulletin board," one employer wrote.

"I wish the girl who sits in back of me would read it and heed it every day," another person said. "She's the most annoying people-watcher I've ever known!"

Over The Shoulder
"For example, she's always looking over your shoulder to see how you're doing your job. And even when it's none of her business she'll look at what you're doing critically and ask, 'Why do you do it that way?' or make some other equally critical comment."

Other obnoxious people-watchers, according to the mail, are those who take it upon themselves to tell you how to do your work.

Constant Natter
"A co-worker in my office is far from perfect in her own performance," a secretary wrote. "Yet she's always watching what I'm doing and telling me how I ought to do things. She never leaves me alone."

Still other people-watching who drive employees crazy were described in other letters.

"I can't stand one man at work who constantly watches to see where other people park their cars in the office parking lot just to be picky about whether or not anyone violates a rule," one letter stated.

"My own particular peeve," stated another, "is a woman in the office who neglects her own work to watch for other people's oversights so she can make herself look efficient by discovering them."

"She's so concerned with this she even stays after people leave to look for things to criticize."

"For instance, she'll make it her business to go around checking windows to see if someone inadvertently happened to leave one open so she can tattletale about it and show her disapproval on the following morning.

"She thinks the word is 'efficient' for her. But she's 'efficient' instead."

Right Word
Frankly, that's the usual word for people who people-watch and look for things to criticize in an unconstructive way.

They agitate and irritate and ultimately hurt themselves — because when you're doing your own job well you just can't people-watch too!

Mullins Talk Highlights Altar, Rosary

East Stroudsburg — Highlight of the meeting of the Altar and Rosary Society of St. Matthew's Catholic Church meeting last week was a talk on "Alcoholism" by Jack Mullins, which members reported as "honest, realistic and inspiring."

Nominated as officers for the election on April 22 were Mrs. Arthur Henning, president; Mrs. Harry Mullins, vice president; Mrs. Richard Smith, secretary; Mrs. John Powell, treasurer; Mrs. James Lorinzel, financial secretary.

Mrs. Joseph DeVivo, Mrs. Joseph McCluskey and Mrs. Edward Mesko composed the nominating committee.

The Fernwood was chosen as the location for the annual May dinner on Wednesday, May 20 with Mrs. Walter Olewick as general chairman.

Mrs. Arthur Blewitt will organize a committee to set up a program of teen-age dances on Saturday nights. Msgr. Thomas J. Cawley voiced his approval of the undertaking.

Mrs. Joseph Harrison will be co-chairman for the annual November bazaar. Spiritual coordinator, Miss Eve Zateeny, spoke on "Vocation to the Priesthood" and reported on the success of the retreat and day of recollection held at the Villa in Mount Pocono.

Mrs. Walter Casola and Mrs. John Hauser served as hostesses while Mrs. Edwin Millard, Mrs. Guy Nicolais and Mrs. Joseph Harrison arranged the ways and means.

School Grade Drop Warns Of Possible Delinquency

EAST STROUDSBURG — A sudden drop in school grades is the most frequent danger signal in the life of a child becoming a juvenile delinquent, District Attorney James Marsh told the East Stroudsburg Secondary PTA meeting on "Preventing Juvenile Crime."

Henry McCool, Monroe County juvenile probation officer, also spoke before a lively question period.

The long-range respect for parents, which children learn mainly by the observation of the example of their parents' behavior, but also by discussion, praise and punishment, that respect is their best safeguard against juvenile crime.

McCool cited a list of ten standards for parents set up by J. Edgar Hoover, beginning with parents' understanding children and facing the facts about their real needs.

Living harmoniously within their means and with worthwhile goals were other ideals for parents to set up for themselves and their children.

Young Drivers
With the beginning of the use of a car the young person gains anonymity in another community and possible release from the moral standards felt by being with people who know him.

Marsh stressed that the distance driven need not be too great for the "lid-off" atmosphere to prevail.

McCool recommended that parents should hold firmly to their own standards but avoid making impossible tough regulations for children.

Both men favored a middle of the road attitude toward physical punishment of children in the home.

The present day social worker's attitude is opposed to any physical punishment in contrast to the old-fashioned spare-the-rod theory.

The district attorney and the probation officer claimed that as adult society imposes its physical sanctions (loss of freedom in jail, etc.) for serious offenses, children should be made aware, physically, of the extreme limits of their behavior.

TV Three S's

TV programs which feature violence and crime books which feature the three S's, sin, sex, and sadism, and our general habit of spending beyond our means encouraged by high power advertising, do definitely encourage juvenile delinquency.

Under the Pennsylvania Juvenile Court Act the child is termed an "alleged" delinquent until the court declares him one. The child is protected by the law, which provides that he is not considered a criminal but a person who needs help.

McCool stated that generalizations and statistics about the extent of or increases in juvenile crime are difficult to make because there is no uniform method of reporting nationally or even locally.

He also said that Monroe County needs more professional people working for children with problems, more school psychologists, more staff workers at the Guidance Center, another Social Worker in the Children's Aid Society, which also needs several more foster homes.

It was also suggested that if parents were legally required to pay for the support of children when they were removed from their homes, this would act as a deterrent to the "not caring attitude."

In the business meeting an art project was initiated, in which the PTA will provide funds for the purchase of prints of great art for general exhibition. Mrs. Valeska Heller, art teacher, is the chairman.

Easter Cake Recipe Completed

Stroudsburg — It's not sunshine that colors half the batter of Linda's Easter Cake, it's egg yolks and yellow food coloring.

A few words were omitted from the directions of mixing the cake in last Saturday's column so we're reprinting the whole recipe; throw the other one out so you don't get confused:

Easter Cake
Three cups sifted all purpose flour; 4 teaspoons double acting baking powder; 1/2 teaspoon salt; 2 teaspoons pure vanilla extract.

One cup (2 sticks) soft butter or margarine; 2 cups sugar; 1 cup milk; 5 large eggs, separated; 3 drops yellow food coloring.

Sift together the first three ingredients. Set aside. Mix pure vanilla extract with butter or margarine. Gradually blend in sugar. Beat in one egg yolk. Add flour mixture alternately with milk.

Beat four of the egg whites until they stand in soft, stiff peaks. Fold into the mixture. Divide the batter into two equal parts and blend the four egg yolks and yellow food coloring, into one part.

Drop white and yellow batters alternately into a well-greased, lightly floured, 10x4 inch tube pan. Bake in a preheated oven, 325 degrees, 1 hour and 20 minutes or until a cake tester inserted in the center comes out clean.

Remove from oven. Cool in pan 20 minutes. Turn out onto a cake rack to finish cooling.

Use remaining egg white in the Easy Vanilla Frosting recipe printed in Saturday's column.

Tri-Hi-Y Chooses Its King, Queen

Stroudsburg — Bill Ace and Jeanie Meyer were presented with the royal crowns at the annual King and Queen of Hearts Ball sponsored by the Stroudsburg Tri-Hi-Y held recently at the YMCA.

Reigning as prince and princess were Alan Mader and Diane Flagler. The winners were chosen from the royal court on the basis of their answers to the questions, dancing, poise and scholastic and social activities.

Against a background of pink and red decoration, the contestants formed a procession past the judges' bench. They included Bill Burnett, Ernie Ebers, Bill Bracey, Thad Wicks, Tom Panza, Bob Baird, Donna Bak, Toni Hellegren, Donna Ayler, Jean Bessier, Darlene Ott

Lab School 2nd Graders Give Party For Parents

East Stroudsburg — Children of the second grade in the Campus Laboratory School at East Stroudsburg State College entertained their parents last week at a special performance that culminated special study of the United States Post Office.

The children learned about the post office and also visited the East Stroudsburg Post Office. Postmaster Norman Gregory and his staff acquainted the children with the operation and services of the post office.

After their visit to the Post Office the children decided to have a special program for their parents. Under the direction of their teacher, Mrs. Alys Morton, and their student teacher, Emmy Lou Hattenstein, the children presented the production to a large group of their parents.

From the welcoming committee through the refreshment committee the children organized entertainment for the visiting parents.

After the announcement of Carol Fleischmann, a dramatization entitled, "The Postman's Surprise," was performed by William Stout, Susan Young, Cheryl Dunlap, Raymond Ace, David Lingner, David Heeter, Michael Schleier and David Detrick.

Gregory Katz, Richard Landry and Benjamin Geiber read stories that they had created during the postoffice study. This was followed by a "homemade" movie narrated by Elaine Rarick.

For variety, the children presented a skit spoken in the French language that they learned in school under the direction of their French teacher, Miss Rosemarie Anderson. Dances entitled "The Shoemaker's Dance" and "A Danish Dance" were presented by Verna Francis, William Rehn, Harold Strouse, Denise Martz, Cathy Hull, Kathy Cruise, Mark Beers, Joseph Singer and Linda Grose.

A Mexican Hat Dance featuring Nancy Long, Radd Leighton, Guy Maioriello and Gary Shebby preceded the final songfest in which the children sang "The Postman," "A Letter" and "How Do We Know It's Spring?"

The program's activities were pleasingly ended with the children graciously serving punch and cookies to their parents.

SportScope

by KEN O'BRIEN
Daily Record Sports Editor

Basketball and football championships in the Lehigh Valley League are novelties at Stroud Union High School.

Not since 1935 have the Mountaineers finished first in the LVL on the court. And since 1921 the Mountaineers have claimed but two titles (the first was in 1929).

In football, Stroud Union has enjoyed but one share of a league championship—in 1939 when the Maroon and White tied the Konkrete Kids of Northampton.

These facts—and many more—may be found in the latest editions of the Lehigh Valley Interscholastic Athletic Association's record books.

Among other things, the statistical sheets show that Stroud Union had the lowest offensive average (57.6) in basketball. The league's best offensive team was (who else?) Catonsaqua with 79 points per game.

Defensively, Stroud Union finished fifth in the eight-team circuit with a 61.9 average. Ennema had the best defensive average with 55.1 (which proves the tough titlers weren't the best in everything—Catty was second in this department with 57.3).

Dave Plesion, who was named to the first team of the LVL All-Stars this year by the league's coaches, finished third in scoring with 233. Teammate Skip Kintz, a sophomore, placed 13th (with four less games under his belt), netting 178 points.

In football, the Mountaineers finished first in one dubious department—they lost the most number of fumbles (19). And, also for the record, Northampton has won the most number of LVL football championships (25); Palmerton has claimed the most number of basketball titles (16).

In its basketball edition, the association paid a splendid—and just tribute to Catonsaqua's Larry Miller, the "Mr. Everything" of the Associated Press.

It reads: "The LVIAA takes great pride in dedicating this issue of the Lehigh Valley League statistics to All-American Larry Miller, who, without a doubt, is the greatest basketball player ever developed in this league. As Pennsylvania's second-best all-time scorer, he has scored 801 points in league competition this year, and he has a career total of 2,696 points.

"The league is proud, indeed, to have shared in his brilliant career; his display of good sportsmanship and his spectacular performances in these athletic contests will be long remembered and will give future athletes of the league a model to follow in years to come.

"The LVIAA wishes him the best of luck and continuing success in the future."

Here is the first official report of spring football practice in the East Stroudsburg State College football camp, released by Coach Jack Gregory:

"There are great losses from the 1963 squad . . . nine of 11 starters missing, including such outstanding ballplayers as Toby Barkman, Jan Bellevue, Dom Villani and Charlie Siever from the backfield. . . Ed Neuman, Mel Fager and All-Conference Center Joe Bahnska from the line. . . outstanding leadership from tri-captains Tom Washburn, Dick Zapolski and Jerry Wasilchak.

"The outlook—At ends, Washburn has best chance. Others who have looked good are Gibby Romsine, Jim Wolfe, Dave Yates, Doug McNamara, Bob Cassidy, Phil McDonald and Bob Deuer. . . end spot overall shows lots of speed and promise—could be good.

"Tackles—Bob Ruckdeschel, a transplanted end, looks very good. . . those showing fine improvement are George Katchek, Al Norius and Jan Hall. Tom Magdasy, who has dropped out of school, is expected to return. Tackle spot could be stronger than last year.

"Guards—Leading prospects are Gayle Confer and Larry Helwig, both returning lettermen; Bob Tonkin and Bill Strube. . . Phil Falcone of Bangor, a transplanted fullback, looks very good. . . guard position must develop strong offensive view.

"Centers—Jim Slaghtli, Roy Everett, Marty Martins and Fred Smith all show promise. . . need a good starter and reserves.

"Quarterbacks — Carl Rhee, Glen Ray and Ben Salem are fighting it out for starting position. Roger Boger, George Benedick and Bill Reese working hard for other spot.

"Halfbacks — Dick Zapolski, Bob Gelatko, Leo Rehmer (of Bangor), and Barry Roach all look good. Squad members Wilbur Smith and Bob Barr show a great deal, as well as newcomers Bob Freeman and Tom Hampton. . . the halfback slots look good.

"Fullbacks—Jerry Wasilchak is the leading candidate. Joe Salvatore and Steve Kun look very good.

"Defensive specialists — Carl Klach and Bruce Redner are top prospects.

"Overall, depth must be developed. Strongest spots are backs and ends."

Big 'O' NBA Best

NEW YORK (UPI) — Oscar Robertson of the Cincinnati Royals Sunday was named the most valuable player in the National Basketball Association for the 1963-64 season by a record vote.

The Big O received the highest praise possible from his professional rivals when he was named on all but one ballot in the voting conducted among NBA players. Each player was asked to vote for his three leading choices for the President's Trophy, but could not vote for a player on his own team.

Robertson, the 6-5, 205-pound guard who is called the complete ballplayer, received 60 first-place votes of a possible 75. He also got 19 second-place votes and was the third choice on five other ballots for a total of 262 points, the highest ever in the nine-year history of the award.

NBA Playoff Eastern Division Semifinal: Cincinnati 127, Philadelphia 103, Cincinnati leads 1-0 in best of 5 series.

Votes are tabulated on a 5-3-1 point basis.

The overwhelming choice of Robertson brought to an end the domination of Bill Russell of the Boston Celtics, who had captured the Most Valuable Player Trophy three years in a row, and four times overall. Russell was third this year behind Wilt Chamberlain of the San Francisco Warriors.

WBA Head Out To Dethrone Clay

By JOE MCGOWAN Jr.
MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Describing Cassius Clay as a "detriment to the boxing world," the president of the World Boxing Association asked its executive committee Sunday to remove Clay's world heavyweight title.

Ed Lassman of Miami Beach, WBA president, said he had called the 20-member committee, asking for their immediate vote on whether the title Clay took from Sonny Liston Feb. 25 should be vacated. "I expect the poll will be complete by Friday," Lassman told The Associated Press. "I am certain the title will be vacated."

Clay--Uh, Ali-- Rebuts Critics

By ROBERT MOORE
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Heavyweight champion Cassius Clay —paranoid, Muhammad Ali—said Sunday "that's one way you might get me whipped" when advised the World Boxing Association was in the process of voting to remove him from his throne.

Clay relaxed in his room in a Harlem hotel and added: "I hope they the WBA won't act like a coward and take it away from me just because they have the power. If they do, I'll win it back.

"One thing is certain: I won't lose my title any other way. I'll fight three men—yes, three—on the same night. And if one of them is big enough to whip me, he's the champion."

TAG TEAM MATCH

"I'd like to fight Floyd Patterson and Sonny Liston and Doug Jones or Eddie Machen on the same night."

The Louisville Lip won his crown Feb. 25 by gaining a seventh-round technical knockout over Liston in Miami Beach. The next day he confirmed he was a member of the Black Muslims, a Negro supremacy organization, and last week announced his new name was Muhammad Ali.

In Miami, Ed Lassman, president of the WBA, said he was certain Clay would be stripped of his title because the champion "has proven himself by his personal action as a detriment to the boxing world and has set a poor example for the youth of the world."

Advised of this charge, Clay shot back: "He must be thinking of Sonny Liston. He couldn't be serious about me. Hundreds of youths follow me up and down the streets every day. Parents tell me they're glad to have a champion like me and that I'm a perfect example for their children."

'YOUTH LOVE ME'

"The youth love me. They hug and kiss me. People say they are proud of me.

"I'm the savior of boxing. I'm a beautiful model for youth. I don't drink. I don't smoke. I've never been caught stealing. I don't run around with women and carry pistols.

"I'm an Olympic gold medal winner for this country. And I won the heavyweight title fair and clean. Honestly, I'm so clean and peaceful. I've never been in any kind of trouble. Lassman's thinking of Sonny Liston."

Uniontown Residents Line Streets To Welcome Champs

UNIONTOWN, Pa. (AP) — Thousands of area residents lined the streets here Sunday to welcome home the Uniontown High School basketball team, the 1964 state champion.

The coaches and 15 players were met at the city line about 2:30 p.m. by a parade complete with bands and color guard. Then an open car followed the parade as it wound its way through town.

Uniontown, which won the PIAA Class A basketball championship in 1962, regained the title Saturday night with a 62-51 victory over defending champion Plymouth - Whitmarsh in Harrisburg.

The Red raiders left Harrisburg by car about 9:30 a.m. and proceeded home via the Pennsylvania Turnpike.

After they left the turnpike they were met at nearby Con-neville with a parade. When the victorious players arrived on the outskirts of Uniontown they were greeted by a Marine color guard, the Uniontown V.F.W. band, and a score of trucks from local firms.

Mayor J. Watson Sembover had some welcoming words and then the fire department took over.

Catch Abe Everhart Jr. and several of his players were loaded onto a large aerial fire truck. Assistant coach John Kruper and the other players were seated on another fire truck.

Then the parade marched through and around Uniontown to the music of the Uniontown High School band which had accompanied the team to Harrisburg.

A local electronic company sound truck weaving through the parade route blared congratulations.

The parade disbanded and the team and coaches were treated to a steak dinner at the Shady-side Inn.

Marie Bonser with 575 yesterday moves into the lead with 41 pins and 1125 for 6 games. Doris Fellenner, Stroudsburg, scored 517 and is second with 1084. Alice Kohl scored 482 to put her 6-game total at 1013 and Anna-bell Clark, Pocono Pines, had 481 for a 1002 total to date.

injured a shoulder. A short time later, Clay acknowledged that he was a member of the Black Muslims, a Negro supremacy group.

Clay said last week he would be known in the future as Muhammad Ali and if he were ever introduced in the ring as Cassius Clay, he would not answer the bell.

"Clay has proven himself by his personal action as a detriment to the boxing world and had set a poor example for the youth of the world," Lassman said Sunday.

Lassman said both Clay and Liston's names had been removed from the monthly ratings of the WBA.

Lassman said if the title were vacated, and he was sure it would be, that the WBA's world championship committee would decide the process for selecting a new champion.

Will Drop Duo

"I would say the rankings for April I will list only eight men, not 10 in the heavyweight division," Lassman said. "The two missing would be Liston and Clay."

Removal of the two, Lassman said, would leave Doug Jones as top-ranked heavyweight boxer, followed by Ernie Terrell and Eddie Machen.

Lassman also said the action against Clay would be taken because of the champion's contract signing with Inter-Continental Promotions, Inc., before his fight with Liston.

"He agreed the fight under Liston before he even fought him," Lassman said.

By signing the contract, Clay gave Liston's Inter-Continental firm exclusive rights to promote Clay's first title fight in the event he won. Clay was paid $50,000.

"As far as I am concerned," Lassman said, "I have no evidence of this $50,000 contract. I am appearing before the U.S. Senate antitrust subcommittee Thursday. I hope to be able to learn then whether or not there is such a contract.

"When I spoke to the principals after the match concerning this $50,000 contract, they advised it was a legend and was put out for publicity purposes. "He (Clay) agreed to fight under Liston's promotion before he even fought Liston. This is contrary to our rules."

The subcommittee opens hearings Tuesday into the Liston-Clay contract.

Twelve 700-Point Triples

'Magic Alleys' Yield Area Strikes

EAST STROUDSBURG — (UPI) — It's not every bowler who can top 700 points in a three-game match. In fact, it's phenomenal for non-professionals.

But it has happened here 12 times. That would be very unusual in itself according to a consensus of bowlers, but to add to the mystery 11 of the 12 700 "triples" were rolled on alleys 1 and 2 at Harmon's Recreation Bowling Alleys. And, three of the bowlers did it twice.

The two lanes are being called "Bowler's Paradise" and "Magic Alleys."

Is it the alleys or the skill of the bowler?

Charlie Wright of Tannersville recorded the highest three-game set with 738 points. And, in one of the games he had 298.

Was it Wright or the alleys?

It was Wright according to measurements of the American Bowling Congress. The instruments and gauges were applied and the lanes were found to be well within the tolerances under ABC rules.

Those who chalked up the scores admit they are fairly good bowlers, but not phenomenal ones.

Their answer to a man is short, but definitely not simple. It's just that the two lanes "carry very well."

Get Webster to define that. The only 700 — or — better match not rolled on the "Magic Alleys" was accomplished by Dr. Gail Fegley of Stroudsburg. He tallied 702 at Colonial Lanes in Stroudsburg.

Local bowling official Jacob Nittel, of East Stroudsburg, agrees the lanes "carry well."

But he also said an added factor may be what he called "a chain reaction of positive thinking."

Nittel said that it may be a mental thing as well as anything else. He said a bowler says to himself: "Everybody seems to hit on those two alleys; I can do it too."

Peter Casella, of Tannersville, Jim Harmon Jr., of East Stroudsburg, and Clarence Pipher of East Stroudsburg, R.D., did it twice on "Bowler's Paradise." Casella had 729 and 726; Harmon 703 and 706, and Pipher, 711 and 715.

Others hitting the magic mark on 1 and 2 lanes were: Russ Dennis Jr., Stroudsburg, 711; Oscar Woollever, Stroudsburg, 717; Russ Bergman, East Stroudsburg, 716, and Tom Somers, East Stroudsburg, 704.

Casper Takes Doral Open As Nicklaus Misses Putt

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Billy Casper fought off the challenge of Jack Nicklaus on the last green Sunday to win the $50,000 Doral Open Golf Tournament for the second time in three years by a one stroke margin.

The pressure-packed finish came right down to the final putt before Nicklaus' hopes died when he missed a birdie.

Trailblazing by two strokes going into the 437 yard par 418th hole, Nicklaus dropped his second shot 20 feet from the cup, while the chubby Casper was hitting into a sand trap at the edge of the green.

Casper blasted out to 18 feet and with a bogey staring Casper in the face, Nicklaus stepped up to try for the birdie that would have forced a play-off for the $7,500 winner's prize.

So much depended on the shot that Nicklaus called for an official ruling on who lay furthest from the cup. He wanted to go first because if he made it he would put Casper under nerve wracking pressure.

Nicklaus won the ruling and, taking a very long time to line up the putt, missed the cup by inches and rolled three feet past. Casper then flubbed his putt and took his bogey.

Casper, former U. S. Open champion winning his first important money of the year, was two under par with a 70 while Nicklaus was shooting a 69.

Actually, the turning point came on the eighth hole of the final round. Nicklaus, who had pulled up even with Casper with a birdie on the sixth, fell two strokes back on the eighth when he hit a wood shot over the green and the gallery into a water hazard. He took a bogey while Casper was posting a birdie.

Cy Barrett Says

Ad Collector

By Cyrus Barrett, Jr.

DEAR CY:
As a travelling man, I get around and try to read lots of newspapers. They keep me out of trouble. During my 32 years on the road, I have been collecting unusual want ads, which I keep stored in a safe deposit box. What a story they tell! Do you know it and how my collection of want ads can be turned into money?

C. OWENS

DEAR MR. OWENS:

There is currently no orderly market for old or unique want ads, but it may be just over the horizon. Robert A. Espe, an Arkansas engineer, underwent heart surgery and turned to his hobby: reading and saving newspaper classified ads. While convalescing, he made plans for formation of the International Ad Scanners society.

The organization is now a reality and publishes "The Want Ad Hobbyist" monthly. I caught Mr. Espe on his way to Toronto where his story was taped for airing on television viewers in the British Isles. He said, "The doctor says my want ad hobby has paid off in a return to health." Mr. Espe further enthused: "Want ads are a form of literature. There is a definite character to them, which survives wars and other disasters. They tell a story in their overall world-wide entirety with suspense and drama and reflect history accurately. Before people started collecting postage stamps, a cancelled stamp was worth absolutely nothing. Time will prove the value of a want ad collection. You'll see."

CY

DEAR CY:

I am a Judy Garland fan and just sick about her television show folding. They tell me she will be replaced by a show, featuring a panel of millionaires. The millionaires are supposed to tell how much CBS is making a big mistake in cancelling Judy. Do you agree?

GRANT RICH

DEAR GRANT:

Judy is a gal with heart (and plenty of problems) who can bring cheers and tears anytime she wails a ballad. One of these days, the networks will awaken from their ridiculous mesmerization by Nielsen ratings and evaluate shows on the basis of impact. In the meantime, Judy must go, and therefore you are probably stuck with a half hour celebrity panel followed by 30 minutes' worth of millionaires. The first half of the hour may click, but I predict the millionaires will lay a gorgeous goose egg. Anyone needing more money (and who doesn't?) care little for instructions from the Murchisons, J. Paul Getty, or Helena Rubinstein. The question uppermost in people's minds is: "How can I make more money, with the talents I have... here... today?" Stories of gusher oil wells, gigantic corporate complexes, and millions of dollars in cosmetic sales won't rate with Neilsen (or America) as well as Judy did.

DEAR CY:

Our public spirited firm pays tuition for any night or correspondence courses its employees undertake and complete. About 20 per cent of their workers are already taking some course. Here's a way companies can help themselves through helping their employees.

PADDY Q.

DEAR PADDY:

"Factory" magazine recently reported: "Latest use for trading stamps is as an incentive for industrial correspondence students. United States Plywood corporation (New York) uses stamps to reward trainees who turn in their assignments on time and correct." There is more than one way to keep an employee glued to a book... or a company.

Hunting License Fee Income Up

HARRISBURG (AP) — The State Game Commission reported this weekend that hunting license receipts are running more than $1 million ahead of last year because of increased license fees.

Executive Director M. J. Golden said preliminary figures show total sales of $12,245 resident and 40,821 non-resident licenses, amounting to $4,841,616 in receipts.

The current license year still has five months to go. The commission had estimated sales would drop off by 100,000 because of the increase. However, sales at this point are not far behind total sales for the 1962-63 year when 926,976 resident licenses and 48,872 non-resident licenses were sold.

FIGHT HYPOKINESIA*

*Hypokinesia—that's the medical term for soft, weak, flabby muscles. Its cause: lack of exercise. And it's a threat to many youngsters. Those who spend long, inactive hours watching television. Those who don't participate in sports. Those who ride when they should walk. Those who have every modern comfort. The physical decline of American youth must be stopped. Parents should insist on nothing less than 15 minutes of vigorous activity every day at school—for every boy and every girl. Contact your school officials. For information about a basic program used successfully by many schools, send for the free leaflet offered by the President's Council on Physical Fitness, Washington 25, D. C.
